

DeGlopper Memorial

Charles N. DeGlopper is a Grand Island, New York native and U.S. Army soldier who posthumously received the Medal of Honor, the highest award given by the U.S. military, after giving his life for his country on June 9, 1944 during the Battle of Normandy.

The expansion of the DeGlopper Memorial site will not only honor Charles N. DeGlopper, but all Grand Island residents, past, present, and future, who have proudly served the United States as a member of the military. The site will include a memorial to all branches of our Armed Forces.

You can help to honor Charles N. DeGlopper, and the many Grand Island residents that have unselfishly risked their lives to keep our home safe by giving to help fund this expansion project.
